STRUDCOM – ARCHITECT COLLABORATION FOR ADANI

THINK STRUCTURE, THINK STRUDCOM!

At Strudcom, we believe that exceptional projects are created through strong collaboration between architecture and structural engineering. Over the years, we have had the privilege of partnering with several of the world's leading architectural firms as well as distinguished Indian design practices across commercial, residential, hospitality, healthcare, institutional, and mixed-use developments.

Our collaborative approach enables us to develop structural solutions that complement the architectural vision while ensuring safety, efficiency, economy, and constructability. By working closely with architects from the earliest stages of design, we help transform ambitious concepts into practical, sustainable, and buildable realities.

Based on our successful experience, we are pleased to recommend the following architectural firms for consideration. Each brings a distinct design philosophy and proven expertise, making them well suited for projects that demand design excellence and technical innovation.

Category A – International Architects

Foster + Partners: Globally renowned for iconic, sustainable, and high-performance landmark developments.

Aedas: International design practice specializing in large-scale mixed-use, commercial, and hospitality projects.

L35 Architects: Award-winning global firm known for contemporary architecture across commercial, residential, and hospitality sectors.

Gensler: One of the world's leading architecture and design firms, recognized for innovative, people-centric environments.

Category B – Indian Architects

Ingrain Architects: Contemporary design practice recognized for context-sensitive and sustainable architectural solutions.

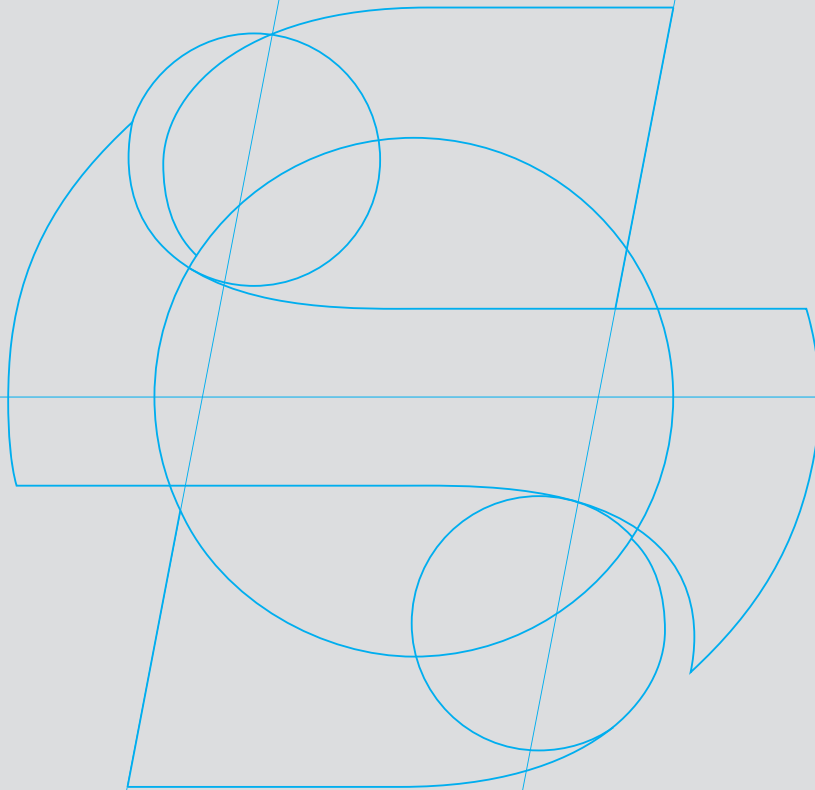

P.G. Patki Architects: One of India's most respected architectural firms with decades of experience in landmark developments.

Architect Rushikesh H.: Design-focused practice known for innovative, functional, and client-centric architectural solutions

Our Recommendation

Considering the project objectives and the importance of achieving an integrated design outcome, Strudcom recommends engaging one of the above architectural firms based on the project's scale, vision, and functional requirements. We are confident that a collaborative approach between the architect and our team will deliver a solution that is innovative, efficient, and aligned with the Adani's aspirations.
